

Optimise citrus production with InteliGro's integrated crop management approach.

At InteliGro we understand that the right solution starts on your farm.

We follow a holistic approach to achieve these right solutions and by doing this, help to achieve optimal, good quality crop production.

We follow an integrated approach when it comes to citrus production and this approach is customised on the farm through the intense, needs-based interaction between the farm management and InteliGro's crop solution specialists.

This trusted business relationship delivers the required results and ensures the necessary return on investment.

Plant nutrition plays a crucial part within this holistic crop management approach with the focus on optimising the nutritional status while managing the carbohydrate status in the plant. It all starts in the soil by correcting soil imbalances and addressing root health, followed by scientifically based soil fertiliser recommendations.

With this solid foundation in place the focus moves towards the timely management of the plant nutrition status and the addition of foliar feeds based on the specific crop needs.

The correct positioning of bio-stimulants helps to enhance certain reactions within the plant and support the physiological responses that is required at certain phenological stages of the growing cycle.

Root Development and Root Health

- Ameliorant corrections
- Biological Balance for Optimal Root Health
- Rhizosphere management for optimal nutrient uptake
- Soil conditioning for optimal root development
- Irrigation according to the phenological stage

Formation of bearing units and increase reproduction

- Sustainable pruning practices for different cultivars
- Leaf quality and health
- Balanced nutrition programs
- Optimal carbohydrate management

Optimal fruit quality

- Integrated plant protection program
- Optimal carbohydrate management increases fruit colouring
- Sustainable farming practices

As a leading crop management company in SA, with a highly experienced team of crop solutions specialists, extensive range of high-quality products and scientifically based data, InteliGro is in a perfect position to supply you with the right technical solutions at the right time, to achieve the right results.

With us, you are growing goodness!

optimale
sitrusproduksie
dit begin op die plaas

Thinus Smuts

info@inteligro.co.za